Scores of Lives Believed to Have Been Lost in the Inundated Valleys -A Disaster Feared in

THE DEVASTATION COMPLETE.

YUMA, A. T., March 2.—In this town over 250 houses are in ruins, 1,400 people are homeless, not a single business house remains standing and it is feared that hundreds of lives have been lost in the Gila valley. The telegraph wires are down and as all bridges are gone and roads blockaded no reliable reports can be had.

The river above town is 7 miles wide and below the town the water in places covers the country in one grand lake over 50 miles across. The railroad company will not have the blockade raised for west-bound trains for four days and it will be ten days or two weeks before they can get east. The town has provisions for eight days.

Reports from Jakuno, 15 miles above deadlock in the legislative history here, are to the effect that the flood of this country. Its provisions have drove the people into the treetops and lalready been printed. The senate that many, becoming exhausted from also passed the house bill giving a pencold and hunger, dropped into water and were drowned. Reports from reliable sources place the number of lives lost in the valley anywhere from thirty to 100. Along the valley for 200 miles everything is desolation. Costly houses and barns have been washed away like playthings, while stock and fences have been carried down by the flood, leaving the country as bare as a desert. Men who ten days ago were wealthy are now homeless and paupers. Eighty miles south of here, where 5,000 Cocopah Indians live, the country is flooded for 80 miles square, and as there are no hills for refuge it is reported that over 100 of them have been drowned. The great valley of the Colorado is one vast sea of Parties just in from Jakuno report that the laborers at work at the head of the Mohawk canal, 70 miles east of here, left there Sunday night of last week. When the flood first came they took to the hills and over the mountains, and as they passed along the edge of the valley they saw men and women in the trees and horses, cattle, pigs and chickens passed them on boxes, long pieces of fences and piles of poles. There were no boats or any means to rescue the people. The water was 7 to 10 feet deep. They say that from ten to fifteen of the people must have perished. These men traveled 50 miles without food or sleep. When they reached a band of cattle they caught and milked some cows and drank the milk. They believe that more than a hundred people must have perished in the flood, as most of them live from 5 to 7 miles from the mesas or highlands.

Thirty miles above here many families well to do are now in want. Every house and building is open, and hundreds are quartered on the hills. The merchants have opened their goods in the streets to help out the sufferers. Many believe the worst is over; others fear the high water 200 miles east, all of which must pass here. The great valley of the Colorado as far as the eye can reach is one vast sea.

A boat just in from Mohawk, 60 miles up the Gila river, says that many lives were lost. The greatest sufferers are the poor Mexican families who live on their scanty daily earning. The Yuma Times is lost in the wreck. The Catholic convent and school are in ruins. The church is about the only road roundhouse is saved. The people are hopeful and determined not to be discouraged. All are working to regain what has been lost. The water was 4 feet 8 inches higher than ever known before. Thousands of cattle went to the hills and are safe. Six men just down from the Gila say that six people were drowned 16 miles above here. Men, women and children are at work day and night moving to the hills, putting up wind-breaks and shelters for themselves. THE FRANCO-GERMAN TROUBLE. Berlin, March 2.-Court and diplomatic circles are greatly concerned over the sudden departure from Paris of Empress Frederick. The reception of the empress by the French will, it is feared, precipitate a political crisis. Emperor William is greatly annoyed over the discourtesies to which the empress has been subjected at the French capital. He has empowered Count Von Munster to inform the French ambassador at Berlin that the visit of Empress Frederick is Germany's final effort to establish peaceful relations with France. This is highly significant. It shows the emperor's lispleasure and seems to put to an end all peace-offering relations between the two great powers of Europe. German citizens are indignant over the insults offered to the imperial visitor. BERLIN, March 2.-The emperor's wrath at the failure of the visit of the Empress Frederick to Paris to establish n some sort good feeling between Gernany and France has fallen upon both Chancellor von Caprivi and Count von Munster, the German ambassador at Paris, upon the former for advising the trying of the experiment and upon the latter for assenting to the empress' prolonged stay and to her fatally indiscreet visit to Versailles. There are rumors that Von Caprivi will be ousted from his position and that Count von of courts of the United States Munster will be recalled, though in the meantime there is no accurate indication of the imperial feeling towards both these officials. Count von Munster certainly will not long remain at his present post, nor will M. Herbill was laid before the senate and read bette, whom the emperor now regards with such aversion as to justify M. Ribot in his recalling him.

London, March 2-A Berlin dispatch says that the kaiser is determined to effect an entire change in the attitude of the Germans toward France. There will be no more attempt at reconciliation, and while there is no ground for mality. The proposed relaxation of passport regulations in Alsace-Lorraine has already been withdrawn, and the French visitor to the Reichsland will find himself under the same odious espionage that has been so irritating in the past. The commanders of the frontier fortresses have been ordered to increase their vigilance and all suspicious strangers are to be arrested, especially those who may be found with photographic apparatus in the vicinity of fortified places.

The cafes are filled with crowds of excited Frenchmen, who seem for a moment to have forgotten everything but their common hatred for Germany. The feeling is in such a state of tension that the people are ready, if the popular ex-pression be taken as an evidence, to go to any extent to revenge themselves on Germany's latest action.

FEWER.

The proposed smendment to our city charter creating eight wards in this city. is causing considerable discussion among men who keep close watch of municipal affaire. The idea of sixteen aldermen in the council reminds some of the time when Janesville had six wards and three sidermen from each ward. That council was one long to be remembered, and its meetings were entertainments worthy of place on the stage. Just what the object is of making eight wards at this time cannot be seen. The managers claim it is to give the city a greater representation in the board of supervisors, though they wink at that idea and whisper around among place hunters that it will insure democratic control of the common council. It is proposed to so construct the several wards that under no circumstances likely to arise will the republicans be able to carry more than three of the eight.

There is no necessity for a larger repunder the present election law allowing the common council to create election precincts there is no necessity for in. creasing the number of wards, unless it be to give some parties a chance to obtain a seat in the council.

A more economical and equitable amendment would to decrease the number of aldermen, making the council consist of five members. Then elect the five on a general city ticket, the same as the water commissioners were elected a few years ago. Such an amendment would give each ward a local representative, but the whole city would have a choics in electing the men, and no ward clique could be successful in imposing upon the people a man unfit for the place. The tendency would be toward better government for both parties would realize the importance of placing in nomination their test men. It would be an honor to sit in such a body.

Assemblyman Winans, who owes his every election in this city to the republicans, will not only honor himself but honor his constituents by over-riding schemes of political tricksters and proposing an amendment that will be of benefit to the property owners. No man knows better the character of political bodies in Janesville than he, and he can easily foretell the effect should the com_ mon council be increased to sixteen

HERE'S ANOTHER CONSPIRACY.

L. F. Livingston, who rules things in the Georgia Farmers' Alliance, has written a letter to President Polk, of the National Farmers' Alliance, in which he advises the farmers of the cotton belt to lessen cotton production in order to put up the price of cotton, which has lately reached the lowest point for many years. He thinks that if the production of cotton is lessened by 25 per cent. the price will be increased by 20 per cent. Meanwhile the acreage devoted to the raising of food produts can be correspondingly the various agricultural organizations of the cotton belt shall hold a convention for the purpose of providing for a united effort to in crease the propuction and put up the price of cotton:

No one can complain if farmers seek to better themselves, but the New York Sun urges that as the alliance men are so vigorous in denouncing trusts, it should not be concealed from them that the plan of Colonel Livingston means forming a big trust to diminish the supply and raise artificially the price of a great staple. Now from the point of view of "monopolists and Wall street camblers" this sort of thing is all right, but the Farmers' Alliance is supposed to regard it with shuddering horror. And so it does regard all trusts, combinations, monopolies, and conspiracies to advance prices and restrict production, except those that will put money in the pocket of its members. The Farmers' Alliance is composed of worthy and wellmeaning men, but its position as a great moralist and economist becomes very shaky when it seeks to imitate for its own advantage the practice against which it most bitterly inveighs.

Kansas Simpson has stirred up Rhode Island to claim that it has just buried a man who lived ninety years and never wore a pair of socks, underclothing or overcost in his life. He lived to be ninety and left $100.000, besides all his clothng. Probably he was so mean that be would not die sooner en account of the funeral expenses.

A good many people will insist that Bismarck has earned the right to talk as much as he cares to even if he does not always remember that the emperor has hours to live. But Senator Hearst held on with the grim determination that marked everything in his career. His death will change the political complexion of the senate, for the remaining two years of his term will be served out by a republican.

There was a change for the worse in the senator's condition a day or two since, and he grew weaker and weaker until about 7 o'clock Saturday evening when he passed into a state of coma, and Mrs. Hearst was made aware that his end was near. She was at dinner at the time and immediately joined the sorrowing group about the dying man's bedside. ten for two years, and the political con-The others present were: Mr. William R. Hearst, the senator's son; Mr. J. G. Follansbee, of California, the senator's partner; Dr. Ward, the nurses and several domestics. The senator's hands were held by Mrs. Hearst and the physician, and so quietly and easily did he pass away that Mrs. Hearst did not know that he was dead until so informed by Dr. Ward. He gave no indication whatever of pain or discomfort, and seemed to the anxious watchers merely to have fallen asleep. Dr. Ward said that the senator displayed wonderful fortitude in his illness, and had not during its entire course uttered a complaining word or expressed the least fear as to the result.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Senator Hearst will be held Thursday morning. They will take place at his late residence and will be brief and simple. The day of the funeral is delayed until Thursday so as to enable the members of the senate and house who desire to attend the funeral to do so without interfering with the pressing business that demands their attention during the few remaindays in which congress will be in session. On Thursday night or Friday morning, the exact time not being determined upon as yet, the remains will be taken to the railroad station, deposited in a private car away from home at the time. He was attached to a regular train and sent to | 30 years old. His book of poems was San Francisco, where the interment | warmly commended by Longfellow and will take place. SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The death of Senator Hearst will infuse life into the state legislature, which has the election of his successor. There are three prominent candidates: M. M. Estee, who was chairman of the last republican national convention; M. H. De Young, proprietor of the Chronicle and a member of the national world's fair committee, and Charles N. Felton, ex-congressman from California. Each has a strong following and the struggle will be lively. The legislature is overwhelmingly republican, so there is no chance for a democratic successor to Hearst. The death makes his son, W. R. Hearst, the richest newspaper proprietor of the country. It is said young Hearst will have complete control of the bulk of the senator's estate of $20,increased, and the farmer can raise his 000,000, and that he will at once set own meet and corn. He proposes that about the establishment of a daily newspaper in New York, as he regards

'Frisco as too small a field. [George Hearst was born in Franklin county Mo.. September, 3, 1820. His father had gone to that state from North Carolina in 1819. The son received only such a limited education as the common schools afforded in that day. He worked on his father's farm until 1850, when he caught the gold fever and went to California. For several years he was a miner and prospector, and subsequently, by location and purchase, he became the owner of valuable mining interests and a large employer, having at one time as many as 2,000 men at work in his mines alone and operating quartz mills that crushed 1,000 tons of ore per day. The increase of his wealth was steady and rapid and for some years past his income has been something like $1,000 per day. He has been for a long time chief partner in the ex-&Co. He owned about 40,000 acres of land in San Luis Obispo county, Cal., a ranch of 160,000 acres of grazing land in old Mexico, stocked with a very large herd of cattle, and a fine stable of thoroughbred horses. He was also interested in a large tract of land near Vera Cruz and in railroad building in Mexico. His fortune at the time of his death was estimated at $20,000,000. Mr. Hearst's political life began in 1865, when he was elected to the California legislature and served one term. In 1883 he was a candidate before the democratic state convention at San Jose, Cal., for the nomination for governor, but was defeated by Gen. George Stoneman. The latter was elected governor, and when, by the death of United States Senator John F. Miller in 1885, the power of appointing a senator was given to him, he appointed his former opponent for the gubernatorial nomination, Mr. Hearst. The latter was re-elected in 1887 by the California legislature, which was then democratic. and his term would have expired in 1893. His death gives the republicans, in their turn, the same advantage which the death of Senator Miller gave the democrats. While in the senate Mr. Hearst was a man of action, rather than of words. He took but little part in the debates, as he had a weak

The plague which he places second on the list is intemperance, and on that subject he discoursed this morning in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, and this evening in New York. At the close of the service in the New York Academy of Music, Dr. Talmage went over to the Union Square theatre, where his son, Mr. Frank De Witt Talmage, was holding an overflow meeting, and briefly addressed the crowded house. Both the New York services are under the auspices of The Christian Herald, of which Dr. Talmage is editor. The text of the doctor's sermon was taken from Gen. ix, 20-21: "Noah planted a vineyard, and he drank of the wine and was drunken." This Noah did the best and the worst thing for the world. He built an ark against the deluge of water, but introduced a deluge against which the human race has ever since been trying to build an ark-the deluge of drunkenness. In my text we hear his staggering steps. Shem and Japhet tried to cover up the disgrace, but there he is, drunk on wine at a time in the history of the world when, to say the least, there was no lack of water. Inebriation, having entered the world, has not retreated. Abigail, the fair and heroic wife, who saved the flocks of Nabal, her husband, from confiscation by invaders, goes home at night and finds him so intoxicated she cannot tell him the story of his narrow escape. Uriah came to see David, and David got him drunk, and paved the way for the despoliation of a household. Even the church bishops needed to be charged to be sober and not given to too much wine, and so familiar were people of Bible times with the staggering and falling motion of the inebriate that Isaiah, when he comes to describe the final dislocation of worlds, says, "The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunk-

THE WATERS OF MADNESS. Ever since apples and grapes and wheat grew the world has been tempted to unhealthful stimulants. But the intoxicants of the olden time were an innocent beverage, a harmless orangeade, a quiet sirup, a peaceful soda water, as compared with the liquids of modern inebriation, into which a madmust confess that some of the ancient arts have been lost, the Christian era is superior to all others in the bad eminence of whisky and rum and gin. The modern drunk is a hundredfold worse than the ancient drunk. Noah in his intoxication became imbecile, but the victims of modern alcoholism have to struggle with whole menageries of wild beasts and jungles of hissing serpents and perditions of blaspheming demons.

An arch fiend arrived in our world, and he built an invisible caldron of temptation. He built that caldron strong and stout for all ages and all nations. First he squeezed into the caldron the juices of the forbidden fruit of Paradise. Then he gathered for it a distillation from the harvest fields and the orchards of the hemispheres. Then he poured into this caldron capsicum and copperas and logwood and deadly nightshade and assault and battery and vitriol and opium and rum and murder and sulphuric acid and theft and potash and cochineal and red carrots and poverty and death and hops, but it was a dry compound, and it must be moistened, and it must be liquefied, and so the arch fiend poured into that caldron the tears of centuries of orphanage and widowhood, and he poured in the blood of twenty thousand assassinations.

And then the arch fiend took a shovel that he had brought up from the furnaces beneath, and he put that shovel into this great caldron and began to the proprietor and his family once the stir, and the caldron began to heave most affluent supporters of summer to do so God will wipe out the nation and rock and boil and sputter and hiss and smoke, and the nations gathered New England farm into decay, and he did Thebes, as he did Babylon. around it with cups and tankards and turned the resease cheeks that bloomed Aye, he is waiting to see what the demijohns and kegs, and there was at the foot of the Green mountains enough for all, and the arch fiend cried: "Aha! champion fiend am I. Who has done more than I have for coffins and graveyards and prisons and insane asylums and the populating of the lost world? And when this caldron is emptied I'll fill it again, and I'll stir it again, and it will smoke again, and that smoke will join another smokethe smoke of a torment that ascendeth for ever and ever. I drove fifty ships on the rocks of Newfoundland, and the Skerries, and the Goodwins. I have ruined more senators than gath- | ing drink a criminality." So the word er this winter in the national councils. I have ruined more lords than are now gathered in the house of in this country or the American govpeers. The cup out of which I ordinarily drink is a bleached human skull, and the upholstery of my palace is so rich a crimson because it is dyed in human gore, and the mosaic of my floors is made up of the bones of children dashed to death by drunken parents, and my favorite music-sweeter than Te Deum or triumphal marchmy favorite music is the cry of daughters turned out at midnight on the street because father has come home from the carousal, and the seven hundred voiced shriek of the sinking steamer, because the captain was not himself when be put the ship on the wrong course. Champion fiend am I! I have kindled more fires, I have wrung out more agonies, I have stretched out more midnight shadows, I have opened more Golgothas, I have rolled more Juggernauts, I have damned more

INTEMPERANCE IS NOW INCREASING. this nation, and it takes no logical process to prove to this audience that a drunken nation cannot long be a free nation. I call your attention to the fact that drunkenness is not subsiding; certainly that it is not at a standstill, but that it is on an onward march, and it is a double quick. There is more rum swallowed in this country, and of a worse kind, than was ever swallowed since the first distillery began its work en home there are ten drunken homes. Where there was one drunkard's grave there are twenty drunkards' graves. It is on the increase. Talk about crooked whisky-by which men mean the whisky that does not pay the tax to government-I tell you all strong drink is crooked. Crooked Otard, crooked Cognac, crooked schnapps, crooked beer, crooked wine, crooked whiskybecause it makes a man's path crooked. and his life crooked, and his death crooked, and his eternity crooked.

If I could gather all the armies of the dead drunkards and have them come to resurrection, and then add to that host all the armies of living drunkards, five and ten abreast, and then if I could have you mount a horse and ride along that line for review, you would ride that horse until he dropped from exhaustion, and you would mount another horse and ride until he fell from exhaustion, and you would take another and another, and and day after day. Great host, in regiwould make the earth tremble. I do not care which way you look in the community today, the evil is increas-

I call attention to the fact that there are thousands of people born with a thirst for strong drink-a fact too often ignored. Along some ancestral lines there runs the river of temptation. There are children whose swaddling clothes are torn off the shroud of death. Many a father has made a will of this sort: "In the name of God, amen. I bequeath to my children my houses and lands and estates; share and share shall they alike. Hereto I affix my hand and seal in the presence of witnesses." And yet perhaps that very man has made another will that the people have never read, and that has not been proved in the courts. That will put in writing would read some-

If the 17,000,000 professors of religion should take sides on before the destiny of this nation would be decided in the right direction.

Is drunkenness a state or national evil? Does it belong to the north, or does it belong to the south? Does it belong to the east, or does it belong to the west? Ah! there is not an American river into which its tears have not fallen, and into which its suicides have not plunged. What ruined that southern plantation-every field a fortune, into the pallor of despair? What has smitten every street of every village, town and city of this continent with a moral pestilence? Strong drink! To prove that this is a national evil I call up two states in opposite directions -Maine and Georgia. Let them testify in regard to this. State of Maine says: 'It is so great an evil up here we have anathematized it as a state." State of Georgia says: "It is so great an evil down here that ninety counties of this state have made the sale of intoxicatcomes up from all parts of the land. Either drunkenness will be destroyed has been ruining the bodies, minds and ernment will be destroyed. Drunken- UNFAITHFULNESS OF POLITICAL PARness and free institutions are coming into a death grapple.

POVERTY COMES AS AN ARMED MAN. Gather up the money that the working classes have spent for rum during the last thirty years, and I will build for every workingman a house, and lay out for him a garden, and clothe his sons in broadcloth and his daughters in silk, and stand at his front door a prancing span of sorrels or bays, and secure him a policy of life insurance so that the present home may be well maintained after he is dead. The most ersistent, most overpowering enemy of the working classes is intoxicating liquor. It is the anarchist of the centuries, and has boycotted and is now boycotting the body and mind and soul of American labor. It annually swindles industry out of a large percentage of its earnings. It holds out its blasting solicitations to the mechanic or operative on his way to work, Drunkenness is the greatest evil of and at the noon spell and on his way home at eventide. On Saturday, when the wages are paid, it snatches a large part of the money that might come to the family and sacrifices it among the saloon keepers. Stand the saloons of this country side by side, and it is reach from New York to Chicago. This evil is pouring its vitriolic and dampable liquors down the throats of hundreds of thousands of laborers. of death. Where there was one drunk- and while the ordinary strikes are ruinous to both employers and employes, I proclaim a universal strike against strong drink, which strike, if kept up, will be the relief of the working classes and the salvation of the nation. I will undertake to say that there is not a healthy laborer in the United States who, within the next twenty years, if he will refuse all intoxicating beverages and be saving, may not become a capitalist on a small scale.

Oh! how many are waiting to see if something cannot be done for the stopping of intemperance! Thousands of drunkards waiting who cannot go ten minutes in any direction without having the temptation glaring before their eyes or appealing to their nostrils, they fighting against it with enfeebled will and diseased appetite, conquering, then surrendering, conquering again and surrendering again, and crying, "How long. O Lord! how low before these infamous solicitations shall be gone!" And how many mothers are waiting to you would ride along hour after hour, see if this national curse cannot lift? It is going to be how lovely thou art to her, and how an out-and-out battle with drunken- soft and warm thy skeleton hand! The ness and sobriety, between heaven and sepulcher at midnight in winter is a hell, between God and the devil. Take king's drawing room compared with that woman's home. It is not so much al decadence, take sides before your the blow on the head that hurts as the sons are sacrificed and the new home of | blow on the heart. I curse those this subject it would not be very long | daughters into profligacy. Cursed be bread tray and cradle. Cursed be couch and chair and family Bible, with record of marriages and births and deaths. Curse upon curse."

Oh, how many wives are there waiting to see if something cannot be done to shake these frosts of the second death off the orange blossoms! Yea. God is waiting, the God who works through human instrumentalities, waiting to see whether this nation is going to overthrow this evil; and if it refuse watering places? What threw that as he did Phœnicia, as he did Rome, as church of God will do. If the church does not do its work then he will wipe it out as he did the church of Ephesus, church of Thyatira, church of Sardis. The Protestant and Roman Catholic churches today stand side by side with an impotent look gazing on this evil, which costs this country more than a billion dollars a year to take care of the 800,000 paupers, and the 315,000 criminals, and the 30,000 idiots, and to bury the 75,000 drunkards. Protagoras boasted that out of the sixty years of his life forty years he had spent in ruining youth; but this evil may make the more infamous boast that all its life it souls of the human race.

Put on your spectacles and take a candle and examine the platforms of the two leading political parties of this country, and see what they are doing for the arrest of this evil and for the overthrow of this abomination. Resolutions? Oh, yes, resolutions about Mormonism! It is safe to attack that organized nastiness two thousand miles away. But not one resolution against drunkenness, which would turn this entire nation into one bestial Salt Lake City. Resolutions against political corruption, but not one word about drunkenness, which would rot this nation from scalp to heel. Resolutions about protection against competition with foreign industries, but not one word about protection of family and church and nation against the scalding, blasting, all consuming, damning tariff of strong drink put upon every financial, individual, spiritual, moral, national interest.

I look in another direction. The church of God is the grandest and most glorious institution on earth. What has it in solid phalanx accomplished for the overthrow of drunkenness? Have its forces ever been mar shaled? No, not in this direction. carefully estimated that they would Not long ago a great ecclesiastical court assembled in New York, and resolutions arraigning strong drink were offered, and clergymen with strong drink on their tables and strong drink in their cellars defeated the resolutions

I tell this audience what many of you may never have thought of, that today SCIATICA NEURALGIA -not in the millennium, but today-the church holds the balance of power in America; and if Christian people-the men and the women who profess to love the Lord Jesus Christ and to love purity and to be the sworn enemies of all uncleanness and debauchery and sin-if all such would march side by side and shoulder to shoulder this evil would soon be overthrown. ### BISHOP KNIGHT'S ADDRESS

Confirmation Services in Episcopal Church es-New Members Admitted at the Pres byterian Church-Many Other Religious Notes of Local Import.

Fifty old soldiers merching to the beat of a muffled drum, filed into the Fire, Methodist church Sunday morning. They were representatives of W. H, Sargent Post No. 20 G. A. R., and were under the command of Commander E. B. Heimstreet.

The church was tastefully decorated with flags. Draped over the gellery was a large flag, while over the pulpit was an arch formed of flags, the keystone being a picture of General Sherman draped with crape. The sermon was worthy of the occasion. The speaker told of the life and work of the dead soldier, and spoke feelingly of the services rendered by the men who accompanied him.

" Many of you know the story better circuit court this morning. than I do; yes, better than the newspapers that printed his life and experiences," said the speaker. "He was man who controlled circumstances, instead of being controlled by them."

The service ended by the singing of "America" by the audience, after which the old soldiers filed out and marched back to their quarters where they disbanded.

Bishop Knight on Calvinism.

Confirmation services were conducted by Bishop Knight at Trinity church Sunday morning and at Christ church in the evening. In the morning the bishop took for the topic of his sermon the reception of the prodigal son. In the evening he he discussed the attitude of the soul toward God. Toaching upon the doctrine of foreordination in the course of his sermon, he insisted that after a week's sufferring from ulcerated restaurant. His ex-employer had the doctrine was against human reason. In Switzerland, Holland, Scotland, and among the Protestants of France, the severity of the teaching was responsible for much of the atheism and religious apathy.

"What would we think," said the bishop, "of an eastern soveriegn, however despotic, who would put his subjects to eternal punishment of the most fearful and friends in Washington has returned kind for doing what they could not help?"

Memorial to Miss Webster.

The Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor held memorial services for Miss Elizabeth Webster at the Baptist church last evening. Miss Morse acted as leader and a sketch of Miss Webster's life was read by Miss Herkimer. A number of others took part in the services. A letter was received from Dr. Hodge which contained a fitting tribute to Miss Webster's memory. The service was very largely attended.

After these bills have been introduced I shall send a copy to both The Gazette and Recorder for publication, and before snything further is done with them the people will be given an opportuni y to express their opinions. "For one thing there will be an smendment to the municipal court law allowing the county judge or the circuit adge to hear municipal court cases in the absence of the municipal judge. The buil also enlarges the jurisdiction of justice courts thus relieving much of the on "account of my age and circumstrain upon the municipal court. Another amendment creates seven wards you support me." Newman, of Janesville, will be senior in the city. I have not read this bill and do not know how or where the division lines are made. The other important amendment is that giving the common council the power to elect the street commissioner instead of electing that officer by the vote of the people. There are several other minor amendments that are made Lecessary to harmonize the several shapters, to which no objections can be raised. However, befor I put these bilis to create new wards and placing the election of street commissioner in the common council, I desire to hear an expression of the people."

These amendments to our city charter are of more than usual importance to the peor le of the city, and the people should avail themselves of Mr. Winans' suggestion and express their opinions for cr Greatte are open to the people for a fair discussion of these changes. CHILDREN NOT MISUSED

They Were Treated Well as other Members of the Family, Insists Mr. Decker-How Stories Spread that Brought About the Removal to Sparta.

William Decker, of the town of Harmony, who was charged by Agent Rusk, of the state school for dependent children, of having misused two children' insists that the agent's etatements are malisions and not to be believed. "The charges that Agent Rusk makes against me ere false," said Mr. Decker. ·It Mr. Rusk was the man he should be he would have brought those children before the family and had them tell their story where it could be either affirmed or denied. Instead he went out in the woodshed and barns and extorted statements from both the boy and girl that sugar beet seed for experimental culture they, as well as all my neighbors, know are untrue. Both of the children were allowed the freedom of the house and were in the sitting room as much as any of the rest of us. Mr. Ruek's charge that they were kept in the cold kitchen is as false as all the rest of his story. As t, the work done by the boy and girl he also grossly exaggerated. If the boy ever milked eighteen cows he must have gone to the neighbors to find them for I only had eleven milked, and he never milked but four of that num. Salvation Army, and was forced to give ber at any one time. The girl's work was to wash a few dishes, and mop out a 10 by 16 kitchen once or twice a week. She was treated the same as my own children, joined them in their games, and was with them whenever she chose. "She wrote to the state school several times efter she came to our house-was allowed free use of secretary and writing materials whenever she wished. I slways mailed her letters, but one day, about a month ago, I found a letter she had written lying open on the desk and read It was filled with abuse lies, and I told her then that I should never mail another letter for her until I had read it.

" 'As long as you tell the trut' I said. I have no objection, but when you put on such falsehoods as that I must insist upon seeing your le ters.'

"Mr. Rusk says we did not send the children to school. We were not expected to until we had had them with us for three months on trial. After that if we liked them and decided to have them WANTED-tifty experienced sewing mastay, we were to give them four months' chooling each year, and this we would

"I think that Rusk's conduct needs investigation more than anything else about the case. His trip was a good deal of a social than it was business. It will pay the superintendent of the school to look after him a little more
